XRayline Workstation is a medical data management software solution that allows you to store patient medical reports and x-ray images. Using this program, you can record, access, and edit medical data and observations. You can share information with other medical providers and colleagues using both network and local file connections. Merton of Argyll Merton of Argyll is a fictional character from the British television soap opera Emmerdale, played by Tom Keen. He appeared from 1990 to 1994 and returned in 2014. Creation Merton was created by producer Kathleen Beedles and Head of Soap Catherine Spencer, to add the brothers to the main male cast, since they had left the show in 1989. Storylines Merton was the brother of Bill Webster, the grandfather of Steven Ferguson and Edie Gillen. Merton was a popular character in his day and the show's fans often saw him as a foil to Bill, who was more serious. Merton was married to Linda (future Emmerdale character Ella Bayne), who miscarried twins and died of the amniotic fluid embolism. Merton was a naive man who was completely in love with his fiancée. Bill Webster, a widower at the time, offered to marry Linda so Merton and Linda would not be left childless. Merton and Bill married shortly after the birth of their children Steven, Edie and Jacob, and the couple seemed a devoted couple with a good life, and a place in the village. Merton and Linda later separated after she took up with Alf Stewart, a bad-tempered man. Merton tried to get over Alf and Edie was unenthusiastic at her mother's new boyfriend. Steven, however, supported Linda's decision, but would come to regret it. The couple later went their separate ways. Merton left the village in 1994, but returned in 2014, when he was introduced as a prison officer. Development "I had told the producer that I wanted to do [a] bit of acting," Keen recalled. "So he asked me would I like to do a couple of days' work here as a back-up, as a fall guy if need be. If I wanted to I could do it. So I said yes and he put me on the books." Merton was keen on singing, and Keen enjoyed singing in the soap, including a version of "Fly Me

The transition is not always easy.

Tips for an Effective Team Presentation

Team presentations are an important aspect of a project team's development, and one that should be done carefully and strategically. This tip sheet is intended to help you create a plan and prepare to effectively conduct a team presentation. Create a team mission statement To get your team members on the same page and align your project, it's important to create a mission statement. This statement should describe the project's goals, who's responsible for achieving them, and the path by which the project will get there. Consider the following template when creating your mission statement: Project Goal Brief description of your project's primary goal. Responsibility Who will be responsible for achieving your project's primary goal.
